

ABSTRACT

An energy conversion apparatus comprising a heat conductive base, a heat insulating cover operable to mate with the base so as to form a sealed space
5 bounded by the cover and the base to prevent ingress of moisture, and a mount inside the space, for securing an energy conversion circuit to at least one of the cover and the base.